The Importance of Equine Eye Care

When your horse has an eye issue, thorough examination, accurate diagnosis, and effective treatment are necessary to prevent loss of vision and discomfort. Visit the UF Large Animal Ophthalmology Service page.

Equine Eye Care

Equine Eye Problems Specific to Certain Breeds

Equine Cataract Surgery
Learn about cataract surgery for horses on p.4 of

UF Veterinary Specialists
The UF Veterinary
Ocular diseases are diagnosed at a higher frequency in certain breeds, indicating that there may be genetic factors associated with certain eye conditions. Learn more.

Learn more in the latest issue of Modern Equine Vet, which focuses on a study by UF Veterinary Ophthalmologist Dr. Dennis Brooks. Learn more.

Hospitals have more than 60 board-certified veterinarians, but what is the advantage of having specialty veterinarians care for your horse's eyes? Learn more.

News From the UF Large Animal Hospital

Update on EPM Medication Reactions
Update on seven horses admitted on May 6, 2014 with signs of an accidental overdose of the EPM drug pyrimenthamine. Learn more.

Equine Sports Performance Complex Now Open
The Equine Sports Performance Complex is now available for performance evaluations! Learn more.

Vaccinate Your Horses
West Nile Virus (WNV) and Eastern Equine Encephalitis (EEE) are mosquito-transmitted viruses that can be prevented by vaccination. Learn about EEE. Learn about WNV.

To set up an appointment or speak with one of our equine specialists, please call us at 352-392-2229

CONTACT & HOURS

Stay Connected

UF Large Animal Hospital
2015 SW 16th Ave, Gainesville, FL 32608
352-392-2229
largeanimal.vethospitals.ufl.edu